

GLASS SYSTEMS

Glass as an architectural element in railing and guard systems presents designers with countless opportunities to enhance timeless, minimalist design. Not only does glass reveal more of the architectural elements of a building to the outside world, but provides its inhabitants with an increased view of the surrounding natural features and skylines. It is unsurprising, then, that glass railings are the most popular railing choice in modern new construction.

ALUGUARD offers systems with a wide range of tints, shades and specialty glass designs to cater to the unique needs of your project.
